Avocados will be extremely limited over the next several weeks, due to a grower strike in Mexico. This is affecting product availability, pricing, and ripeness of product. Our QA team is ripening product as they are able, but to keep up with sales we are sending fruit that is harder than we would like to send out. Green beans have been tight on supply and are getting tighter. Expect elevated pricing and diminished quality as our QA and Procurement teams do their best to source the best quality through the Thanksgiving holiday. Romaine and Iceberg are limited in supply as well as we transition to desert growing regions. We are also seeing adverse cold temperatures which will affect quality. Tomato (round and roma types) price is rising due to the transition to new growing regions. Brussels Sprouts, sugar snap peas, and jalapenos are seeing small improvements in quality at our warehouse from our last Produce Sheet
